The CHAIRMAN-Well, we retain half the interest in the part we are selling, and we are putting it into the hands of experienced engineers from London and they are much more likely to manage it successfully from that quarter than any directors can do from this. Up to a year or sighteen months ago our affairs were not so well looked after as we expected by the men who had been there for years, although our experience is much better now. As to the books being so far behind, you certainly have some reason to complain. When Mr. Hardy want. have there, the first thing the book-kneper who was there did was to leave, and he left the books in disorder, so that it took Mr. Hardy some time to get in the them into order. He has worked them up in such a way, however, that in a fortnight hence if we shall have Saptember accounts in hand here. We have already got August. I may also add Mr. Fraser Smith-It is a vectomy dos- that this meeting would have been nearly a month sooner but that we thought it desirable to postpone it with a view to being able to say taryon that the company in London had been formed; the Slat was the extreme limit allowed for its formation.
